

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for providing telecommunications services in a telecommunications network.

- 5 A telecommunications service provider monitors data relating to communications initiation or termination criteria for at least two communicants in the telecommunications network and initiates or terminates communications between the at least two communicants if, by processing the data, it is determined that the criteria have been met.